APPRECIATION

The Publishers appreciate the assistance of literally thousands of contributors who willingly supplied the information contained in this book.

We appreciate also the loyal help of employees, Felix Lee, who came from Hong Kong, Linotype Operator; Sheila Reay of Meeting Creek, Clerk-Typist.

DEDICATION

This first issue of the Canadian Review of Official Personnel is dedicated to former employees of Sun Publishing Co. Ltd., which I founded and organized during the past 15 years when I published the Alberta List.

Marsh Hodgins, who this month celebrated his 88th birthday and has been a printer and composing room foreman for 70 years. Former composing room foreman at Sun Publishing, he shows an eager interest.

Reginald Stevens, expert linotype operator and linotype machinist, who supervised the printing of this first edition, and assisted in typesetting. Mr. Stevens had served for a number of years in this work for me at Sun Publishing Co. Ltd.

Mrs. Clara Allen, who edited the Alberta List with me for 13 consecutive issues and piloted the editing of the present Alberta Book.

Mrs. Rose Barnes Olsen, who managed the bindery work at Sun Publishing for 20 years, and this year is directing the bindery work of the Review at Sun Color Press Ltd.

My wife, Deborah Pue, who for many years handled advertising sales on the Alberta List and now is an Account Executive with CFRN Radio.

MASTER HIGHWAYS PLANNER

Hon. Gordon E. Taylor is a native Albertan. Born in Calgary, he spent most of his boyhood at Drumheller and was educated at the Public and High Schools and the Drumheller Business College in his home town. In addition, Mr. Taylor is a graduate of Banff Dramatic School, Provincial Normal School and University of Alberta.

His interest in children is well known throughout the Province, and for many years he has maintained a summer camp called "Camp Gordon" for upwards of 125 boys on Pine Lake. In 1942 he enlisted in the R.C.A.F. as AC 2 and upon return from Overseas was honourably discharged with the rank of Flying Officer.

First elected to the Alberta Legislature in 1940, he has been re-elected on the Social Credit ticket with substantial majorities in every election since. He was made Government Whip in the Legislature in 1943, a post he held until on December 27, 1950; he was appointed Minister of Telephones by Premier E. C. Manning. On May 1, 1951 he was appointed Minister of Highways and in 1955 named Chairman of the Research Council of Alberta.

As Minister of Highways he raised building standards and laid down the principle that Highway routes must be planned ahead and laid out to serve the travelling public. "We can't build a modern highway network by twisting and turning into every town like an old cow trail" he maintains. He set up a Highways location branch to plan highway routings and provide for adequate right-of-way wherever a new location goes through Crown property.

He had built in Alberta the first Clover Leaf and first divided highways in Western Canada. Alberta's native born Highways Minister has become known nationally as an outstanding proponent for the construction of modern highways and for safety on the highways.

MUNICIPAL DISTRICTS IN ALBERTA

With the growth of countries in rural Alberta, the number of municipal districts has been gradually declining. Starting in 1951, when two municipal districts switched to county status and the Municipal District of Pembina reverted to Improvement District, the trend towards county status has gradually reduced the number of municipal districts from forty-nine in 1950 to nineteen at present. Municipal districts were first organized shortly after 1905, when Alberta became a province. Originally, local rural areas were loosely organized and called "labour" or "fire" districts. These areas were responsible to discover and fight forest and prairie fires; and when there was a job of road construction to be done, labour was recruited locally.

IMPROVEMENT DISTRICTS

Originally, all rural areas in Alberta were organized as Improvement Districts. Now only those districts unable to maintain their own local government and economy are still established. But these represent large areas of land and only small populations. Areas covered by National Parks in the Province are classified, for government purposes, as Improvement Districts. The Province exercises and collects provincial taxes. The newest Improvement District is I. D. 150, being formerly that part of I. D. 143 comprising the Alberta portion of Wood Buffalo National Park. There are 48 Improvement Districts. The Board in charge of the Districts consists of the Hon. G. H. Gerhart, A. W. Martin, A. R. Ifbister (Director of Field Service), and D. R. Watson (Finance).

SPECIAL AREAS IN ALBERTA

There are two special Areas in the Province. These are administered by a Board appointed by the Department of Municipal Affairs. The Board acts in much the same capacity as an elected council. Special areas are vast areas of sparsely settled land comprising huge crown reserves leased to private operators as integral parts of economic farm units.

The Special Areas Board, with headquarters at Hanna, consists of the Hon. A. J. Hooke, A. W. Morrison, C. W. Edwards (Chairman), J. Pokojoy, R. W. Duff, K. C. Switzer, and D. R. Watson.

“METROPLEX” COUNTIES

The Alberta Legislature has passed legislation to provide for the establishment of what might be termed “Metropolitan” or “Metroplex” Counties. This is where an Improvement District and the towns, villages and school divisions within it unite to form a single governing unit. As of January 1, 1968, there had been no “Metroplex” Counties formed, although plans were discussed for one in the Crow’s Nest area.

ALBERTA PROVINCIAL PARKS

Provincial Parks in Alberta are administered under the Dept. of Lands and Forests. E. P. Shaver is Director of Parks, with W. T. Galliver Administrative Assistant.

The first Provincial Park was established in 1932 with the designation of Aspen Beach. Since then 43 more have been established and at the end of 1967 there were 44.

Alberta provincial parks, not to be confused with the national parks within the province, are becoming more popular each year. They range in size from four acres for Ma-Me-O Beach to Cypress Hills with 49,620 acres.

Some are undeveloped but all are established for the health and recreation of Alberta people and the thousands of tourists who visit the province each year.

COUNTIES IN ALBERTA

With the erection of the Counties of Flagstaff (No. 29) and Lamont (No. 30) on January 1, 1968 there are now 29 counties in the Province. The first counties were formed on January 1, 1951 and one (County of Sturgeon No. 15) reverted to Municipal District status after the initial trial period. These are all rural counties where the rural municipal district and the school divisions within it combine into a single unit with one governing council and various committees.

Two additional counties have been formed, called "urban" counties. The Town of Devon and the Town of Swan Hills have formed the single unit with municipal and school affairs handled by the same council. The County of Swan Hills has just been erected on January 1, 1968; but the Town of Devon has already had its trial period of several years following which a plebiscite was held to determine if the system should be continued. The vote was all but unanimous (there was one dissenting ballot cast) in favour of continuing the "Urban County" system.

HUTTERITE COLONIES IN ALBERTA

A unique feature of rural life in Western Canada are the Hutterite colonies established throughout agricultural areas of the province. The first Hutterites settled in Alberta, coming from North Dakota, in 1918. There are now 68 colonies, made up of approximately 6500 members of the sect. They farm about 1½% of the farm land in the Province.

John Huss, a German religious leader of the 16th century founded the religion near Innsbruck, Moravia in Southern Germany. For nearly 100 years, after expulsion from their home land, they lived undisturbed in Russia. When new persecution started they moved to the United States, a small surviving band of only 250. During the First Great War they moved again, this time to Alberta and formed a number of neighboring colonies south of Lethbridge.

In 1947 the Communal Property Act was passed to restrict establishment of new colonies to not less than 40 miles from an existing Hutterite settlement. This Act was changed in 1960 to provide for control over the establishment of new Colonies but in accordance with the general good of the area affected. Chairman of the Communal Property Board is E. F. Breech, Room 202, Royal Trust Bldg., 10039 Jasper Avenue, Edmonton.

Shown in the following list is the post office of the colony, the colony name and name of the manager or "head Man" in that order.

The district abounds in good lakes and the lakes abound in fish. You can sail any kind of boat on the "big" lake (over 20 miles long) to your heart's content. You'll enjoy the scintillating scenery of beautiful islands set in a northern shining sea. Lovely sandy beaches. Truly — Lac la Biche is the holidayer's paradise. And besides . . . you'll enjoy shopping in the friendly town of Lac la Biche where all your holiday and family needs will be satisfied at reasonable prices.

Published on behalf of the Town and District of Lac la Biche by Mr. and Mrs. Pue and Wesley.
